

ATRC organized training on "Participatory Budgeting" in 10 municipalities of Kosovo

During April to June 2011, ATRC has held 10 training sessions about "Participatory Budgeting". The Participants of the training were members of the Assembly, municipal officials and civil society representatives from 10 municipalities of Kosovo: Peja, Gjakova, Prizren, Klina, Suva-Reka, Istok, Malishevë, Decani, Orahovac and Dragash.

The Training focused on the need to involve citizens in participatory budgeting process as a mechanism that allows citizens to be involved in the decision making process from the planning phase of the municipal budget to the implementation of it. These activities are a continuation of the "Resolution of Social Conflict" financed by the International Center Olof Palme .

Training supported by Intercooperation

ATRC organized a three day training about "Designing the project proposal" for gender equality officials, other municipal officials, and representatives of the civil society from 9 municipalities of Kosovo: Kamenica, Novo Brdo, Klllokot, Hani I Elezit, Kacanik, Raniluge, Viti, Partes and Strpce. The Training is focused on explaining in general all elements of a project proposal. The training methodology is based on the logical approach, which allowed the participants to develop projects from initial ideas, determining the objectives, project implementation and budget. During the training, the participants have developed two draft projects in the field of gender equality and infrastructure.

Training supported by Care International

ATRC supported by Care International Kosovo in June, held two-day training on "Leadership and Governance." Participants in these trainings were representatives of youth NGOs, beneficiaries' of Care International Kosovo. The purpose of organizing this training was to increase the capacity of participants for effective leadership of NGOs and non-profit sector. The training addressed the meaning of leadership and governance; in particular concepts, structures, and principles of leading NGOs. ATRC - CSSProject for Integrative Mediation train and certify 15 Mediators

Starting from June 25 until July 8, 2011, ATRC in partnership with the organization CSSProject for Integrative Mediation and the Ministry of Justice, Mediation Committee, organized a two-week intensive training for 15 mediators in the region of Prishtina, at the end they were certified by ATRC and CSSP.

The training was divided into two phases; in basic training and advanced, aiming within two weeks, to equip participants with the necessary skills and the skills of a mediator, in order that their involvement as mediators in practice be as easy and as successful at the same time.

According to the Law on Mediation, approved by the Assembly of Kosovo in 2008, intermediaries will be licensed by the Ministry of Justice and will then engage in the process of mediation in cases that are referred by courts or directly, as one of the most quick to reduce backlogs in courts.

The two day training is financially supported by the Norwegian Embassy in Prishtina and the Ministry of Justice.

ATRC assists new municipalities in drafting and revising regulations on transparency

ATRC during this quarter has continued to work on capacity building for three new municipalities: Gracanica, Klllokot and Ranilug. During this period, three workshops were organized in each municipality, with the purpose of facilitating the process of drafting municipal regulations.

In all three municipalities working groups were formed, composed of members of the Municipal Assembly and representatives of the civil society who were involved in drafting and revising regulations on transparency. As a result of these workshops the municipality of Gracanica developed draft rules for transparency; whereas the municipality of Klllokot and Ranilug modified existing regulations in accordance with applicable laws. Regulations for transparency in these municipalities were developed / modified in accordance with the Law on public access to documents and rules for government communications service to the public.

These activities are part of the "successful practice-functional municipality" funded by USAID funds.

Letter from the Little Ambassadors of the Environment

"The Young Environmental Ambassadors" have addressed a letter to the representatives of the Kosovo institutions, in which they have expressed their concern about the state of the environment. In their letter among other things they wrote: "We want our sky to be blue and crystal clear. We want our rivers and springs to be clean. We want healthy and fertile soil for our bread. We want our forests to be green and full of life. We want our cities without waste and noise. We want more space for playgrounds and entertainment. Do not destroy our future. We want Kosovo to be clean."

The Young Environmental Ambassadors Project is implemented by the Advocacy Training and Resource Center, ATRC, and supported by the U.S. Embassy in Pristina. This project aims to increase the level of edu-

ATRC and PILPG organize the conference "Justice and the People"

On June 30, 2011 the first conference was organized within the joint campaign by ATRC and PILPG called "Justice and the People: Strengthening the rule of law in Kosovo" and aimed to bring together NGOs, civil society groups, and grassroots leaders interested in greater access to justice and to reform aspects of the justice system.

Participants included experts from various segments of society in Kosovo, and some of the main purposes of the discussion were: to generate insights and recommendations for improving the current legal system, an examination of ways to encourage citizens of Kosovo to take initiative for improving the justice system, to advocate for needed reforms, to analyze the general perceptions of the justice system, and to identify ways to empower citizens and civil society. Inputs provided by participants of the roundtable provided an overview of the important problems in the fields of justice system reform, access to justice, etc.. This conference represents only the first of many future events that are designed to promote this campaign.
